The UBC Youth Circle is pleased to present Indigenous role model Trevor Mack on December 12, 2012 from 1 to 3 p.m. Trevor is Tsilhqot'in from Williams Lake, BC. He is a writer, and award-winning director (filmmaker) or as he calls himself, a storyteller.

Trevor began video editing in 2005 while he was still in high school. He started with editing videos of people playing the popular video game Halo with montages accompanied by music. Since 2005, his montages have garnered more than one million views via the Internet. He also works with a freelance group called Viral Design. He has travelled to Dallas, Texas and other events to shoot video and do photography for various companies.

Trevor is currently attending Capilano University's 'Motion Picture Arts' program in Vancouver where he is pursuing his Bachelor's degree and is interested in freelance contract work.
